VOL. XXVIII SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1931 Issued Weekly No. 24

OLD GRADS' REUNION ONE OF GREATEST TO BE HELD ON CAMPUS

Service School; Baseball Game; Dedication of Track Feature

Homecoming day—that annual red letter day in the life of every alumnus, old or young, prosperous or one of the great army of the unemployed. The day on which the old grads come, as to a gathering of the clans, from near and far; from the teeming cities and the outland wildernesses, to renew once again the fond memories of college days.

Among the numerous events sponsored by the college and alumni on March 8 we will have an event of which everybody is a part. The faculty will be present to greet old students and to renew the friendships born in the academic halls of long ago; the old grads will return to meet old friends and, of course, to marvel at the improvements and to shed a stray tear over the days long departed; the students, the alumni of tomorrow, will be here to make the college homelike, to introduce the alumnus to modern college fads and fancies, and to steal a wondering glance at these products of collegiate education.

Purpose of the Day

The purpose of Homecoming Day, however, is more than a sentimental one. A college education is in no sense static, it is something to be carried and added to through an entire life. With this in mind the purpose of Homecoming Day is to keep fresh in the mind and heart of the alumnus those things which inspired him as an undergraduate. As someone has aptly expressed it, "Homecoming Day is a capsule course of the entire college years." It is a sort of annual starting block giving the incentive to carry on.

Homecoming Day as it is conducted at Saint Mary's is an all day session, giving the alumnus an opportunity to immerse himself for an entire day in the life of the past. Inasmuch as it is intended to represent the entire college years, no phase of college life is neglected. The session appropriately begins with general Communion in the college chapel; in the late morning and early afternoon sessions the educational portion of the program will be attended to with educational lectures and the new idea of a service school. In the afternoon the stellar athletes of the past will vie with the stars of the new generation when the Alumni All-Stars tangle with the Phoenix in their annual baseball game.

Saint Mary's Different

The students and faculty of Saint Mary's College take no little pride in the fact tha they are different from

"Aims of Education" Is Radio Program Topic

A talk on "The Aims of Education" by Professor Gerald Martin featured the Saint Mary's radio broadcast at station KROW last night. This was the fifth feature of this kind. Next Thursday evening the radio audience will be enlightened with a talk from Professor Tomer, the subject of which will be "Household Chemistry."

The musical program was supported by such stars as Jack Tolan, Ted Morehouse, Bill Hayes, and Lester Tomasini. Jack Tolan and Ted Morehouse rendered a vocal duet accompanied on the piano by the staff accompanist. Lester Tomasini treated the listeners with a piano solo and Bill Hayes also gave the audience of the air a pleasing vocal solo.

Letters of favorable comment on the broadcasts have been flowing into the chancellor's office. The programs have proven to be educational as well as amusing to all who have listened to these broadcasts.

OFFICIAL

THE OFFICE OF THE CHANCELLOR

It is my pleasant duty to express appreciation of the courteous and efficient services rendered by the many students who aided in one way or another in making Palestrina Day a memorable success. They demonstrated and exemplified some of the most significant characteristics of Saint Mary's men.

Homecoming Program

Following is the program for Homecoming Day as outlined by the Homecoming Day Committee at its meeting in the San Francisco City Hall last Friday evening:

9:00 A.M.—Arrive at Saint Mary's.

10:15—Communion breakfast in the college dining room, George McKeever '17 presiding.

12:30 to 1:30—Strolling about the campus.

1:30—Dedication of the James M. Smith track.

2:30—Baseball game between the Saint Mary's varsity and the Saint Mary's Alumni All-Stars.

5:00—First alumni service school in Academic Building.

6:00—Benediction in the college chapel.

6:30—Annual Homecoming Day Dinner in the College Dinnig Room, John F. Brady '06, toastmaster.

Collegian Writers Hold Staff Dinner

At the annual collegian dinner held Tuesday evening in the private dining room of the college, not only were many interesting talks given by various members of the staff and by Brother Virgil, moderator of the Collegian, but a delicious turkey dinner was served, which was enjoyed by all.

This dinner, an annual affair, is given by the college to all those men who have participated in editing or in the circulation and business ends of the paper for their work and untiring efforts.

Following an opening address by Jack Corder, business manager of the Collegian, who acted as toastmaster, Brother Virgil was called upon and heartily expressed his thanks for all those men who have so diligently given their time and efforts to the cause and to those members who will not be back writing for the paper next semester, on account of graduation, he wished them much success in the world of business and hoped that their journalistic efforts would some day be of use to them.

James Davis, present editor of the paper, was then called upon and thanked the staff for their cooperation with him and hoped that the Collegian under its new editor would maintainheights of greater merit than the level up to which he had carried it.

Other speakers on the program were Robert McAndrews, news editor; G. Edmund Moss, associate news editor; Harry Whitehead, editor of the Other Colleges column, and Edward Shanahan.

The banquet also served as a means of selecting new members for the offices of the Collegian.

Chancellor Extends Welcome To All Homecoming Graduates

No alumnus would care to return to the campus for Homecoming Day unless he felt that the college IS his home. If a college man does not feel that way, he has missed the essentials of college education. A college is no college unless it is home for its students and home for its graduates.

In what sense home? In the sense that in their college, as in no other place on earth, they find intellectual stimulus and intellectual ideals. The late Mark Pattison, scholar and writer and teacher, began his "Memoirs" with his entrance into Oxford because that event marked the beginning of his essential life. Oxford was home to him; Saint Mary's is home to us.

Homecoming Day should not be candied o'er with sentimental piffle. It is all well enough for good fellows to get together, but a college atmosphere is suited for none save intellectual gatherings. It is praiseworthy for college graduates to make spiritual retreats and in other ways seek the salvation of their souls, but Homecoming Day does not exist for such endeavors. The worldly and the otherworldly are alike alien to the spirit of the college home.

That there is such a reality as intellectual truth, that its quest is thrilling and exciting, that it is a quest worthy of the best brains and in harmony with the best in human nature, that a college exists for intellectual truth, for scholarship, for investigation, for character development, for teaching as a fine art—these beliefs make Homecoming Day a promise and an achievement.

So we say to all our Old Boys. "Welcome HOME!"

—BROTHER LEO.

VARSITY DEBATE HELD ON CAMPUS

Last night saw the Saint Mary's varsity debaters engaged in two of their most successful events of the season, with contests staged with both the University of San Francisco at San Francisco and the Utah State Agricultural College on the campus here.

The first decision contest of the year saw Robert McAndrews '32 and Edward Shanahan '32 upholding the Gael standard in the Saint Ignatius Little Theatre against Lloyd Luckman '31 and Frank Sylva '31 of the University of San Francisco. The final outcome of this debate will be announced in next week's Collegian.

Saint Mary's supported the affirmative of the proposition "Resolved: That the United States should cease to protect by armed forces her capital invested in foreign lands except after formal declaration of war." Valentine Kane, a Saint Ignatius alumnus, acted as chairman of the evening. The debate was also the first formal one of the current season.

At the same time here in Center Hall Lounge Harold Dobbins '31 and Henry Mino '31 were entertaining traveling representatives from Utah State Agricultural College on their first Pacific Coast forensic invasion. This contest had for its topic "Resolved: That the world should adopt a policy of universal free trade," with Saint Mary's again upholding the affirmative. This debate was a no-decision event and proved a real drawing card to the resident students.

The remainder of the debate schedule has yet to be definitely completed, according to Manager James McDermott. Tentative meetings are scheduled with the University of California, this debate to be broadcast over station KROW as part of the regular weekly Saint Mary's program some time in March.

A windup for the season has been scheduled in a debate with Stanford university varsity, to be held on the Saint Mary's campus April 29, on the free trade question.

Dedication of Track Homecoming Feature

As a feature of the annual Homecoming Day program, the track which has just been constructed on the southerly part of Agnon Field will be officially dedicated and will be called the James M. Smith track in honor of the present president of the Alumni Association.

A permanent bronze plate with appropriate inscription will be placed at the west end of the track at the foot of the embankment and it will be set on a suitable pedestal of stone. Appropriate dedicatory ceremonies will be held at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon of Homecoming Day. Rather appropriately, the ceremonies will immediately precede the punting contest for the James M. Smith trophy.

REFINERY VISITED BY ECONOMICS CLUB

An extensive tour of inspection of the main plant of the California & Hawaiian sugar refinery at Crockett was made by the class in economic geography under the guidance of the instructor, Professor Foran, on last Tuesday.

A pleasant and welcome surrpise was in store for the students when they arrived. Contrary to all previous expectations, the hungry lads were guests of the company at a four course dinner prepared for them through the courtesy of Mr. Edwards of the Crockett organization. Mr. Edwards has evidently had experience in the past with young men, for he saw to it that they were amply supplied with soup, fruit, chicken, and ice cream before beginning their tour of inspection.

This is one of several visits to neighboring manufacturing plants sponsored by Mr. Foran in his effort to graphically illustrate the work of the classroom. The students are unanimous in their good reports of the amiability of Mr. Edwards, of the interesting and instructive tour of inspection, and last, but not least, of the delightful dinner.

Many Hear Lenten Series on Matrimony

"Impediments to Matrimony" was the second of a series of Lenten lectures delivered in the college chapel Tuesday night by Father Richard Curtis '13, pastor of Yountville.

The sermon was part of a general program dealing with the subject of marriage which is being carried on by Father Curtis during the present penitential season. In this week's sermon the legal impediments to a valid marriage were enumerated and explained from the attitude of the Catholic Church. They were also treated in the light of the principles enunciated in the recent encyclical of Pope Pius IX.

The remaining lectures of the series are: April 3, "Divorce and Annulment"; April 10, "Mixed Marriages"; April 17, "Modern Crimes Against Marriage"; and April 24, "The Ideal Christian Marriage."

Archbishop Celebrates Mass for Benefactor

The months mind mass in memory of the late Dr. Charles D. McGettigan, alumnus and benefactor of the college, was celebrated in Saint Mary's Cathedral yesterday morning.

The Most Reverend Archbishop Hanna and a number of the members of the alumni assisted at the mass.

The mass was a Gregorial requiem sung by the Student Brothers' choir. The choir was directed by Brother Edwin of Saint Mary's High School faculty.

Seniors Give Sun Dial to College

As announced by the senior gift committee, the graduating class has selected a sun dial as its formal gift to the college. The ceremony of presentation is not definitely fixed, but the dial will be set in place for Homecoming, March 8.

The chancellor, Brother Leo, has accepted the gift in the name of the college, announcing himself well pleased with the plans as submitted. A month ago the committee consisting of Hobin, Davis, and Dobbins, told the class of their choice. It was felt the sun dial would be especially appropriate. An excellent spot near the head of the campus was allowed the class for the dial, which weighs a ton, quarried from Italian granite. The dial itself is the most accurate of any on the Pacific Coast.

Theatre Guild to Hold Term Play Rehearsal

Saint Mary's Theatre Guild is now hard at work rehearsing the major scenes of its forthcoming production of Shakespeare's "Richard II." The immediate incentive of the guild is the presentation next Tuesday afternoon of the major scenes before Brother Leo, chancellor of the college.

If official approval is given to the scenes by the chancellor, work on the play will proceed and the production will be given in San Francisco immediately after the Lenten season. From present appearance the daily noontime rehearsals are being run off in first class style, and a favorable report is confidently expected from the chancellor.

Leads in the cast include Harold Dobbins '31 as the Bishop of Carlisle, John Nesbitt '33 who is also directing the drama as Richard II, John Healy '32 as Lord Bolingbroke, Richard Hensley '33 as the Duke of York, and Darrell Conard '31 as Northumberland.

THOUSANDS THRONG CAMPUS IN TRIBUTE TO MUSIC COMPOSER

Cantoria of Sixty Voices Renders Palestrina Selections

Several thousand musical enthusiasts thronged the Saint Mary's College campus on Monday for the celebration of a Palestrina Academy at which the San Francisco Cantoria a capella choir of sixty voices performed a beautiful program of liturgical music.

Solemn Pontifical Mass and Benediction, with music by the famous composer, G. P. de Palestrina, were celebrated by Archbishop Hanna of San Francisco, assisted by Bishop Armstrong of Sacramento. Deacon of the Mass was Father Edgar Boyle, sub-deacon Father Scanlon. His Grace the Archbishop was attended by Monsignors Gleason and Sampson of Oakland.

The San Francisco Cantoria, organized by Father Jean Ribeyron of the college faculty, and directed by Professor Roberto Sangiorgi, also of Saint Mary's, thrilled the hundreds of worshippers who thronged the college chapel for Mass and Benediction. Their superb rendition of the famous Missa Papae Marcelli of Palestrina, of the works of Pierre de la Rue, Josquin des Pres, Bach, and other great composers won the unstinted praise of the numerous musical authorities present.

Brother Leo, chancellor of Saint Mary's, was chairman of the meeting in the gymnasium in the afternoon, and gave a short talk on the union which must exist between liturgical music and Catholic worship. In his own inimitable style he contested the statements of those who depreciate

Kodak Kontest to Close on Tuesday

"Hurry!" is the final word from the Gael Annual headquarters this week, with only four more days remaining in the gigantic Kampus Kamera Kontest for the Gael year section.

Next Tuesday is the absolute deadline for all photographs, according to Rock La Fleche, editor of the year section; no snapshots will be accepted after that date. Plenty of opportunity remains for amateur kodak enthusiasts to get in their work, according to La Fleche.

Competition for the two prizes promises to be keen. Immediately following the close of the contest the judges will meet and will decide the winner in tome to have the announcement printed in next week's Collegian. The following will judge the photos: Rock La Fleche, editor of the year section; Edmund Moss, editor in chief; and Robert McAndrews, associate editor.

K. C. Council Will Receive Charter

Practically the ful quota of members necessery for securing an official charter were signed up at the Knights of Columbus campus rally last noon under the direction of Timothy J. Canty.

More than a score of applications were duly filed, together with many certificates of transfer from students who are at present members of other councils of the organization. It is expected that within a short time the campus chapter of the Knights will be a thriving society.

Prospective members were addressed in Center Hall Lounge Wednesday evening by Judge Allen Norris, District Deputy of the organization. Speaking on "The Objectives of the Knights of Columbus," Judge Norris outlined the main reasons for joining the organization.

Alumni Notes

To the Alumni of Saint Mary's College:

On Sunday, March 8, 1931, the Alumni Association will be celebrating the annual Homecoming Day here at Saint Mary's. The students of the college appreciate the fact that the Alumni Association is one of the integral parts of the institution and we also appreciate the efforts that have been made by the alumni in favor of the students and in favor of the college.

It is the hope of each student that every alumnus member who is able to be present on the 8th will come back once more to spend a day renewing old friendships among the alumni and making new friendships among the present students.

It is my pleasure to extend to you the welcome of the students. We hope that you will be present for the Homecoming celebration and we assure you that we will endeavor to do our part in making this day a success and your stay here one that will be long remembered.

WILLIAM J. HOBIN,
President A.S.S.M.C.

Vallejo Unit Plans Reunion

According to Thomas J. Horan '13 and Eugene P. Boyle '23, prominent memebrs of Vallejo Unit of the Alumni, plans are now under way for a reunion of the members of that unit shortly after Easter. The Vallejo unit has long been one of the most active of the local alumni units and, in addition, members of the unit have been active in the affairs of the general Alumni Association.

HOMECOMING

other institutions. They are firm believers in the truth that any progressive organization sets the pace rather than follows where others lead. In the same manner, the Alumni Association is not a little proud of the fact that they are also different from the general run of college alumni.

Homecoming Day at Saint Mary's is held on the college campus when the actual spring session of college is under way, thus giving the alumnus the opportunity to see what he really desires—the college in action, and to renew fond memories in the proper atmosphere. The alumni leaders of Saint Mary's believe that to hold Homecoming Day, as many other colleges do, after commencement or on the eve of a major football game is to portray things in the wrong proportion. The old grads want to come back to "college," not to a group of empty and forlorn buildings and not to a monster rally. He wants to see the college as it actually is 99 per cent of the school year, not as it is on those few occasions when the serious work of education is disrupted.

Sentiment Not Enough

In other ways, also, Saint Mary's is different in that it stresses the spiritual and educational side of its Homecoming Day. The alumnus believes that sentimental reasons are not a sufficient explanation for the annual return to the campus. He wants not only to renew friendships with his human companions of college days, but likewise with the other "friends" of the campus of former years.

This year several new features will be presented at the Homecoming celebration, among them the service school idea, the baseball game, and the dedication of the James M. Smith track. The service school session will be given over to a discussion of the actual working of the college and the campus in order that the alumnus may intelligently direct those who may come under his influence.

Committee Meeting

Those who attended the committee meeting last week in the City Hall in San Francisco and who are actively working for the success of the program are: Edward I. Barry '07, Peter McCormick '88, Rev. William Sullivan '97, chaplain; James M. Smith '10, president; Dr. Chesley Benjamin '15, Elbert Schweinitzer '30, John F. rBady '06, chairman of the committee; B. P. Oliver '73, George Poultney St. '76, Timothy J. Canty '23, executive secretary of the alumni.

BUILDING BUSINESS SENIOR TALK TOPIC

"What Goes On in the Building Industry" was the topic of J. Frank Barrett, member of the prominent San Francisco contracting firm of Barrett and Hilp, in the weekly transition course lecture for seniors last Friday morning.

Mr. Barrett, co-partner in one of the largest building companies in the state, discussed conditions in this business straight from the shoulder. He described the best methods of newcomers entering the field and outlined the possibilities for success in this work in the future. The seniors were shown just how a building is erected, from the preliminary plans to the final bit of finished interior work, how bidding from different contractors is handled, and other practical phases of the construction field.

The speaker is a past Grand Knight of San Francisco Council No. 15, Knights of Columbus. At present he is president of the Laymen's Retreat Association of California.

Commerce Department Head Still on Sick List

The condition of Brother Vantasian, who was taken ill last week, has been pronounced by Dr. Mitchell not to be serious.

Brother Vantasian is still in the infirmary and will be there for some weeks. It is a matter of rest and diet that will restore him to health. Brother Vantasian is rapidly improving now and hopes to resume his classes soon, which are now taken by other members of the economics department.

Brother Leo to Speak At Alumni Luncheon

At the monthly luncheon of the general Alumni Association which will be held at the San Francisco Elks' Club on next Thursday, March 5th, at 12:10, Brother Leo will be the principal speaker, according to J. Justin Kegler '28, chairman of the luncheon committee.

In making the announcement, Kegler urged all alumni of the San Francisco Bay district to attend the luncheon to hear Brother Leo, who has long been interested in the welfare of the Alumni Association and who has given unsparingly of his time to further the work which the graduates and students are doing.

Plans for the luncheon were completed at a meeting of the luncheon committee held at the Elks' Club last Thursday. Those present were: Kegler, Executive Secretary Canty, Clarence Carroll '27, George W. Poultney '05, E. H. Moore '18, James Roberts '25, Dr. Gustave Henno '02, and J. Giles Miller '18. It was announced at the meeting that alumni who desire to do so may invite friends to the luncheon.

Alumni Conventions Have Been Scheduled

Three important alumni conventions or conferences will be held in March and April of this year, one a local conference and the two other, national conferences. The local conference will be that of the Catholic Alumni and Alumnae which will be held this year at Domincan College, San Rafael, with March 28th as the tentative date.

The convention of the National Catholic Alumni Federation will be held at Chicago this year.

East Bay Alumni to Hear Brother Agnon

Brother Agnon will be the principal speaker at the monthly luncheon of the East Bay Unit of Saint Mary's Alumni next Tuesday, March 3rd, at the Oakland Elks' Club, at 20th and Broadway, Oakland. Plans for the luncheon are being made by a committee composed of Frank Atwill '16, W. L. Wales ex-'24, and Gerald Lawlor '98.

Brother Agnon will tell of some of the high lights in the history of the college and will trace its development from the institution that was founded out on the Mission Road in San Francisco down to the present college on Moraga Road in Contra Costa County.

Albert T. Shine '06, president of the East Bay Unit, will preside and will introduce Brother Agnon.

GAEL TENNIS SQUAD TRIMS GRAY FOG TEAM IN HARD FOUGHT MATCHES

Great Rally in Doubles Play Gives Gaels First Intercollegiate Win of Season

The Saint Mary's tennis team defeated the netmen of the University of San Francisco Tuesday to attain their first victory of the year and their first intercollegiate victory since the school has been at its present site.

McCabe and Reynolds, two unknown quantities as far as tennis is concerned, were the real heroes of the day. These men, playing their first match as a doubles team, were called upon to decide the outcome of the match. When they went on the court for their match, the last of the day, each of the competing teams had won four sets. As later proved, they were capable of the task.

The singles playing of Jack Steinbach was an exhibition of good tennis. Jack, playing third man, had no trouble at all defeating his opponent, Luther. At all times through the match Steinie had the advantage, never leaving the final outcome in doubt. His victory was the first and served as an incentive to his fellow players.

George Brown, a newcomer to the team, showed that he was capable of coming through in a pinch, for although having been out of practice for the last two weeks on account of illness, he came through with a much-needed win over Girard after a hard fight of three sets. If Brown can continue to play like he played then, he will probably regain his place as fifth man, which he lost to McCabe recently. McCabe will not give up his place without a fight and if Brown intends to replace him he will have to earn it.

Vinc Gerhard happened to run into particularly tough competition and dropped both his singles and doubles matches. Maurie Graves, first man, found Chase just a little too much of a run and ended up on the short end of the final score, although the match went three sets. Graves did come through in his doubles, and with John Friedman defeated Odentahl and Chase.

Bears Play Hosts to Gael Team Saturday

Still striving manfully to win an athletic contest of some sort from the University of California, the Gael baseball team will travel to Berkeley tomorrow afternoon to engage the Bear nine in the first of a three-game series at Edwards Field.

Last year the Gael tossers lost all of the games of the Bear series, each by a one-run margin in three splendid pitching duels. This spring the Moragans are out for revenge, and they will try plenty hard to break the Bear jinx which has so persistently dogged Gael teams of late.

Norm Horner Again

To date, the record of either team is none too hot. The Moragans have not gotten under way and the Bear record is only mediocre.

Norm Horner, who has but to throw his glove on the mound in order to defeat Saint Mary's, is again the California pitching ace. Saint Mary's has never defeated Horner and has encountered great difficulty in even scoring on him.

However, Horner has not been any too successful in practice contests this season and tomorrow may find the Gaels avenging the defeats of previous games. But, and this is more probable, it will be another pitchers' duel, with Noonan and Horner vieing for honors.

Gaels Have Not Hit Stride

Joe Noonan, the Gael chucker, is just about the finest pitcher in the intercollegiate loop. Joe is just wild enough to be effective, and is extremely hard to hit. It should be a real duel if Horner and Noonan hook up and the game may be decided by the support given the pitchers. At all events, hits will be extremely scarce.

Gaels Break Even in Series with Nevada

By breaking even in the Nevada series at Reno last Friday and Saturday, the Gael basketers brought a not too successful season to a conclusion. Friday night the Gaels lost 38 to 30, but Saturday outfought the Wolfpack to triumph 24 to 23 in a wild game that fairly rocked the Nevada court.

In the first game, the Gaels gave Nevada a real struggle for most of the contest, only to succumb under a volley of Nevada baskets. The Wolfpack had a great advantage in height and reach, but the Moragans put up an even struggle for the most part.

Hal Johnson, sophomore forward, was high point man for the Gaels, with twelve points. Dan Bledsoe, Nevada forward, was the individual star. Elmer Preston and Toby Hunt, McNally's two husky guards, turned in splendid performances, and the high Nevada score was in no way a reflection on their playing.

In the second game of the series the Gaels brought a season of poor luck and misfortune to a happy finish when they proved that a fighting team can't lose all of its games all of the time and by sheer fortitude edged out the Nevadans.

This last encounter was a thriller all the way and started out with the Wolfpack taking the lead. For most of the first half the Moragans trailed, and with but four minutes to go in the half, Coach McNally sent in Vic Lusinchi and Len Callan who, with a bucket each, put the Gaels out in front. At half time the score favored the Gael cagers, 16 to 13.

At the beginning of the second half the Nevadans took the lead, with the lead changing hands alternately. With but four minutes to go, Callan made a goal to give the Gaels a lead which Nevada erased a few moments later with another basket.

A shot from in front of the hoop by Charley Baird with but a minute and a half to go gave the Gaels another advantage which they held until the end. A Nevada foul shot put them within one point of the Moragans, and the final seconds witnessed some desperate stalling by the Gaels.

Callan was high point man for the Gaels with fourteen digits.

According to the players, the last five minutes were as fast and furious as were ever played. Coach McNally was going to send in Ray Gross, sophomore center, for the tired Baird, but the play was so fast and thrilling that Ray was still on the sidelines when the final gun ended the contest.

Coffee Team Beats Phoenix Nine, 4-1

The Phoenix went down to their third straight defeat in as many starts last Monday on the College diamond. This time the M. J. B. Coffee nine from San Francisco took the measure of the Varsity to the tune of 4 to 1. Inability to bunch their six hits was the chief cause of the defeat, for Accamozza, making his first start of the year, went the full nine innings in fine style, allowing but seven hits, three of which came in the last inning.

New Bear Coach in Talk With Scribe

"Navy Bill' Ingram, the new California football coach, got his first taste of just how pesty reporters can be from none other than Hugh Cotterell, Collegian news hound, who was on the same train with the new Bear mentor en route from Salt Lake City.

The Moraga scribe, who will henceforth be known as the home town boy who made good, was in conference with Ingram fore more than an hour and found out about all there is to be known of the former Navy leader and his policies.

Ingram told the youthful newspaper man that he deeply respected the athletic prowess of Saint Mary's, for he has not only heard of them in the East but has had the opportunity of meeting Madigan coached teams on previous occasions. Back in 1921 his Navy team of the Pacific Coast took Madigan's outfit down the line, but had no easy task of it. In 1920 and 1921 Ingram had the championship team of the Pacific Coast.

According to Cotterell, the newest addition to the ranks of the already formidable West Coast coaching staff is a man of few words. He had little to say concerning the difficulties confronting him at Berkeley, but let it be known that he would take no back talk from anyone.

He intends to stress the fundamentals of football in his spring practice sessions, with the more intricate business of scoring touchdowns being left to the fall season. He admitted, however, that he may stage a few kick-offs for the benefit of those who crave their football out of season.

Ingram emphatically denied that he will employ the Warner system of football. It is well known, however, that in the East he used a variation of the wing back style of play. Those who seem to be in the know believe that good old-fashioned football and straight line play, with power as the main issue, will feature his attack.

While at the Naval Academy, Ingram did not have too much success, but it must be admitted that his material was somewhat limited. The ruling forbidding former college stars to engage in football put a great handicap on him, especially when competing against the Army, a team that does not observe this ruling.

His first year on the Pacific Coast will be no bed of roses, he admitted to The Collegian reporter, but he does not intend to give up the ship at first sight. No, sir! Not "Navy Bill."

Classmen in Second Round of Cage Play

The interclass basketball season will be resumed when the Freshmen meet the Juniors on the court in Madigan Gymnasium this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The contest should prove about even, as neither team can be classed as exceptional. Incidentally, both of these teams have bowed in defeat to the Sophomore five, which team is, by the way, out to cinch the championship and the interclass trophy. The Freshmen have been improving right along, and if any edge is to be given, it must be conceded to the yearlings.

The Senior class will tangle with the Freshmen again on March 3 in the gym. However, this contest may be taken lightly, as it will probably have no bearing on the title. In passing, it might be mentioned that the fourth year men should take the measure of their opponents because of their experience and extensive material.

The contest which should prove of the most interest, however, is the one arranged between the Sophomores and the Juniors, scheduled for March 4.

Thus far, the Sophomores have been undefeated and feel confident of coming out on the long end of the score. But the third year men are determined not to "give up the ship" without a struggle, which fact should make the contest all the more interesting. The Juniors will have to play good ball to defend themselves from the furious onslaught of the second year men, for they will play a fast game, having everything to gain and the championship within their grasp.

VARSITY BOXERS TANGLE TONIGHT

Saint Mary's Varsity boxing team left last night for Reno, where they will endeavor to uphold and advance the fighting ability of the Red and Blue. They meet the University of Nevada in an intercollegiate meet.

This is our first boxing team and it promises to be a good one.

We have as a sound influence to our boys one of high standing in the boxing world of the Pacific Coast—Joe Lang, who at present is the Pacific Coast bantamweight champion. Joe is fighting at Reno, and from all reports, a good fight is predicted. Carpenter and Miller are boys at the beginning of the game, and under the careful guidance of Coach Matson, promise to be comers in the ring.

Miller won his first fight against an Olympic Club man last week, when Saint Mary's was invaded by that institution. He has had a bit of experience and should show good after he rings the bell of condition.

Carpenter, who fights at 175 pounds, also has promise of being a tough man to handle. He didn't have too strong a chance to show the real Wild Bill stuff, as he was matched against a man who held the intercollegiate championship for two years, but nevertheless Bill gave the fans one of the best exhibitions shown that day. Even though Carpenter lost, he has not lost his ambition and is now prepared to invite his Nevada opponent to kiss the mat.

Ebding and Rubel, who are heavyweights, will flip a coin to see who goes to Reno to uphold their end of the rope. There are great possibilities in these two boys.

Rolleri and Cara are also members of the squad who invade Reno tonight in an endeavor to bring home some more glory to Saint Mary's.

Frosh Cagers Close Year with Victories

Bringing a worse than mediocre season to a close, the Gael Babes finished the season in a "blaze of Glory" by winning two games over the week-end at Madigan Gym.

Playing their first game on Friday night against the State Teachers College, the Gaelets defeated the Instructors by a score of 28 to 26. At half time the score was 17 to 12 in favor of the Moragans.

As the game started out, it looked as if the Babes were in for a mere workout, but as the contest progressed it became faster and the final score shows the closeness of the teams.

For the Teachers, Mendelson, forward, was high point man with seven markers. Gardner starred at guard, playing bang-up defensive ball.

Fred Caviglia, running guard for the Gaels, looped the ball from midcourt, keeping the Gaelets in the fray, and wound up the evening with a grand total of eight points, establishing himself as high point man of the contest.

Coach Sig Lien injected but few men into the game, for the Teachers proved dangerous at all times, and it took all of the first five to take them into camp.

Coach David Cox of the Staters started his shock troops, and these were rapidly replaced by his first team as the Gaelets wasted little time jumping to an early lead.

Armstrong Contest

With Fred Caviglia again leading the Babes and Lang playing his usual good floor game, the Gaelets took on the Armstrong quintet Saturday night and came off the floor on top of a 24-17 score.

Throughout the first half the five from Armstrong's could not hit the hoop for nary a field goal, walking off the floor at half time with a lone charity toss to their credit, the score being 15-1.

The second half began slowly, but it was evident that the Armstrong boys had found their eyes, and they began to creep up on the Babes. Before the second half of the contest was minutes old, they had crept to a 16 to 12 score. MacDonald of the visiting aggregation proved the highlight of this spirited comeback that threatened to make a contest out of what had seemed a pitiless slaughter.

CARDS IN SECOND WIN OVER GAELS

Another act in the "Comedy of Errors" was enacted by the Saint Mary's ball team Wednesday on Agnon Field when they lost to Stanford by a score of 11 to 4. With the game went the annual series to the Cardinals, a catastrophe the like of which even cannot be recalled by Brother Agnon.

Fred Stennett opened on the mound for the Phoenix and lasted quick. Two and two-thirds innings were enough to convince Coach Guisto that the big right-hander was away off form. Four hits and seven walks were turned into eight runs by the Reds, but the Gaels did all they could to help them by booting the ball all around the lot.

Oh! Oh!

In the first inning Stennett walked two men and allowed two hits to give the visitors their first brace of runs. Before the inning was over, four runs had cross the plate by the aid of another bingle and a weird throw by Jones that escaped Gardner when he tried to cut it off.

The Varsity made a determined effort to get back into the game by cutting the lead in half during their licks, but were stopped from then on by Dan Johnson, who literally toyed with the Gael batters. Welsh walked and stole second, went to third on Johnny Valim's hit, and scored when Harder booted Gardner's roller. Beasley then came through with a hit to send Valim home.

Three errors in the second inning and a walk that forced in a run gave the Woltermen another gratuitous run. The big blowoff came in the third frame when Stennett lost all control after two were away. Beasley's poor throw and a hit didn't help matters along any too much. Pete Matson relieved the Saint captain at this point of the game and showed up well.

No Punch

From the first to the ninth, the home team got but one hit off the offerings of Johnson, who only gave them four for the whole contest. In the meantime, Stanford got to Matson in the eighth for three hits and as many runs. Too many curve balls told on the Moraga chucker towards the end of the game.

Peratta, pinch hitting for Rossi in the ninth, hit to right to drive Gardner and Donohue across the platter.

All things considered, it wasn't a very good exhibition of how the great national pastime should be played. Once Rossi was doubled off first when he started for second on an easy pop fly to the infield. Again the shortstop failed to cover second on a steal with a left-handed batter up. It might be said that the lack of practice on Rossi's part has done him no good, for he does not look like the best player for his position by any means.

A new face in that of McDermott took over the duties at second base and turned in a creditable performance. He hit the ball hard on his four times at bat and looked like he knew what it was all about.

Outfought

The Stanford team had more of the pepper essential in winning games than did the Gaels and impressed the fans as a hustling outfit that will be hard to beat out of the pennant. The sophomore twirler, Dan Johnson, looks like the goods and if Wolter has some other pitchers to back him up he is sitting pretty.

At the present writing it appears that the Phoenix have not hit their true stride. The hitters are not collecting their share of hits. Eighteen hits in four games is not much to write home about, but that represents the total amount of bingles the Varsity has garnered so far this year. Against California it is expected they will be in better shape. They will have to be, for any more league games that go on the wrong side of the percentage column will spell curtains for them.

Stanford Cops First Game with Phoenix

That rarest of rare birds, a pitchers' battle, was served up to a few faithful fans last Saturday at Stanford when the Phoenix dropped the first game of the series to the Reds by a score of 4 to 2. Two sterling pitchers, Dan Johnson for the Palo Altons, and Joe Noonan for the Varsity, toiled for nine innings in a very pretty duel, the former emerging as victor only because errors allowed his teammates to dent the rubber.

The hurling honors were practically even. The Saints got three hits to Stanford's two, but Johnson had better control than Noonan in the tight places. Eight men bit the dust via the strikeout route before the Gaels' fast ball pitcher, while Johnson sent seven Saint batters to the bench talking to themselves.

Varsity Scores First

The Saints scored in the first without the aid of a hit. Rowan walked, stole second, and scampered home when Delmas muffed Gardner's roller. In the third canto, Noonan weakened a trifle and walked a man and hit another. A bunt put them in position to score, and they did when Rowan let a hot one go through his legs.

In the fifth inning Campbell singled to left and went to third when Welsh let the ball get away from him. Miller brought him home with the old squeeze play, another of those rare birds in baseball. Again in the seventh Stanford scored on a walk, a fielder's choice, and a clean hit to center.

In the eighth inning Noonan walked and went to second when Welsh did likewise. The Gael twirler took third while Welsh was being forced at second, and trotted home when Valim forced Rowan at second. This ended the scoring for the day, although the Phoenix threatened to pull the game out of the fire in the ninth.

Horseshoe Play

Battling to overcome a two-run lead, the Gaels put a man on first as a result of Pinch Hitter Peratta's Texas leaguer to center. Noonan then lifted a fly to short left. It looked like a boot when the shortstop got his hands on it and then dropped it. But before it touched the ground Hunker came in from left and scooped it up. It was a thrilling climax to a fine game. However, it would have been just as tough if Johnson had lost the game, for he deserved to win as much as Noonan did, but it's too bad the errors had to beat the Gael pitcher.

Phoenix to Meet Fern Candy Team

The Saint Mary's baseball team will entertain the Fern Candy ball club at the college Sunday afternoon, providing "Ole Sol" does not hide behind a cloud and ruin the day for the pastimers of the diamond.

After dropping two games to Stanford and two more to semi-pro teams, the Phoenix players are determined to break into the winning column some time this week-end. With the Candy team there are many eastern ball players that have not as yet signed for the coming season. The game will start at 2:30 on Agnon field with Duffy probably on the mound for the Gaels and Quartolo receiving.

M. J. B. GAME

Quartorola behind the log, was tried out by Coach Guisto, and although they played well in the eld they were woefully weak at the platter.

In the fourth inning, Anti of the M. J. B.'s walked and went to second as the fourth ball got away from Quartorola. A long fly put him on third and after Pelliser walked he scored on a double steal. Rowan's throw to the plate was wide. Pelliser then scampered home when Peck singled to left.

In the fifth frame, Dowan scored from first when Anti dropped Valim's long fly. Valim, by the way, hit the ball hard all day, but did not gather any safe blows. The visitors scored in the eighth and ninth to put the game on ice.

A feature of the game was Jones' long triple to right. The ball traveled on a line to the goal posts, a distance of 320 feet from the plate. Jones also looked good in the field. A fine throw from left in the ninth to cut down a potential run was a high light contributed by Vin Welsh.

The fine pitching of Accomozzo was a surprise, for he was not expected to do much in the way of hurling this year. It now appears as though he cannot be overlooked as a regular member of the staff.

New Ball Field to Be Ready in Two Weeks

Saint Mary's new baseball diamond, located just west of the Freshman dormitory, will be ready for use in approximately two weeks, according to word received from the athletic office.

The field has been leveled off by a steam roller and will be sown with grass within a day or so. It is located in a good position and should be a great improvement over the makeshift diamond on Agnon Field.

A date for the dedication of the new field has not yet been set.

CAL. GAME

Rain and the poor condition of the Moraga diamond have hampered the Gael men to a great extent and they have not yet the stride they will later in the season.

The Gael hitting has been weak and a few real threats in the bating order will have to be uncovered if Coach Guisto's charges are to get anywhere in the league race. However, the Moraga lineup contains some real players, and with a few breaks the Gaels may emerge victorious.

Bears Are Veterans

California will present the same lineup with a few exceptions as they sent against the Saints last year and which nearly won the California Intercollegiate League pennant.

Besides Horner, Coach Clint Evans will start Glaister and Kirwan, a pair of flashing outfielders; Burgett, the league's outstanding second baseman, and Smith, a clever and hard-hitting catcher.

Talented Stars To Play Varsity

When the Varsity and Alumni all-stars tangle on Agnon Field on Homecoming Day, the Alumni will pick its team from a list of stars that would do credit to a big league team, and, as a matter of fact, many of the names on the squad are names of men who have seen active service in the big leagues.

KAMPUS KIDS

By Vincent Whelton '33

It's Woody Peebles, Saint Mary's personality plus kid, today.

For three long years (they probably seem short to Woody now) Peebles has lent his color and personality to Gael elevens and more than once the flagging spirits of his teammates have been restored by Woody's eternal pepper and dash.

Born at Youngstown, Ohio, Wilford Peebles spent most of his life there until he came West to Saint Mary's in 192... Woody and Bob Patterson were next-door neighbors in Youngstown and were always chums. But when Woody went to Rayen High School in Youngstown, Bob moved to Vallejo and went to high school in that city.

At Rayen High Woody was a football star and played one year at fullback and three years at center on the varsity. When Woody graduated, he received word that his friend Bob Patterson was entering Saint Mary's College, and this persuaded him to come out to the Coast. Together with Patterson, he entered on his college career.

Woody played center on the frosh eleven and during his freshman days scrimmaged against Larry Bettencourt. As a result of these scrimmages, Peebles still regards Larry as the greatest linesman he ever encountered.

Last summer Woody spent part of his vacation in the talkies. Woody was an extra in the prison sequences in "Up the River" and spent over a week hobnobbing with the greasepaint boys and girls of Hollywood.

According to Woody, Jimmy Murphy, the Fordham Phantom, was the finest back that he ever saw in action. Murphy, you will recall, was the elusive back that gave the Moragans such a bad afternoon in New York that rainy November afternoon.

As a public speaker, Woody has won some renown. The Gael pivot has addressed several high school assemblies about the Bay region, and the prep students who have heard him will tell you that he is quite talented. Peebles, as a side-line to his vocal abilities, has also entertained the preps with his tap-dancing, and has made quite a hit.

When Woody is finished with Saint Mary's he intends to embark on a law career. He says he thinks he'd like to harangue a jury and maybe in the not too distant future may go so far as to break out in a jig after pleading for his client.

After the college days are over, Peebles is going to register at Hastings Law School in San Francisco and settle down to a long scrimmage with the volumes of Blackstone or what have you.

TENNIS

Needless to say, the team is highly elated over its victory and only hopes that it can repeat in the return contest. The return engagement will be played some time in the near future, but no definite time has been scheduled.

The next match of the team is set for next Tuesday, when the team will play a return match with the California Varsity. The men do not expect to do much against the Cal men, but accept the opportunity to put in some good practice and get some real tournament experience.

A Little Prize Fight History

The longest glove fight in the history of pugilism was fought on April 6, 1893. Jack Burke fought Andy Bowen at New Orleans, the bout lasting 110 rounds. Professor Duffy acted as referee and the actual time was 5 hours, 3 minutes and 45 seconds.

Next Friday closes the poetry contest which so far has been a brilliant success. The students have responded nobly to the call for poems and we are well satisfied with the result. We have approximately twenty-five poems on hand and more are pouring in all the time. Remember, next Friday is your last chance to contribute. If you have any desire to compete, right now is the time to get started.

Following are a few of the poems that have been submitted. Will Stevens has finally decided to give us a break. And what a break! When he writes he writes with a vengeance. From all appearances he's out after first prize with all the considerable talent at his command.

A Plea for Immortality
Will Stevens Jr.

Your grave is sunken and hollow now
Where the Easter lilies bloom,
A lazy cloud is your only shroud
And the winding Ypres your tomb.

The tragic months have mellowed to years,
The plow replaces the sword,
The last whining shell smokes down in hell,
And again man fears the Lord.

Only the lone North star guards the dust
That the friends of old forget,
Your once proud toast is another's boast,
Yet who'd have a girl regret?

Your pal is the one to remember
When we roamed Moraga's hills,
And took our rest on Nature's warm breast,
And bartered our countless thrills.

We talked of art and of logic then,
With never a passing thought
Of anything save it be the wing
Of the moment come unsought.

The poppies spun their golden webbed dream
And the wood folk piped their song,
The world would ring with the breath of spring,
And the world could hold no wrong.

Oh, you were young and I was young,
And the thing that men call Time
Was a tinkling bell far down the dell,
Or a word to taste and rhyme.

Your grave is sunken and hollow now
Where the Easter lilies bloom,
A lazy cloud is your only shroud
And the winding Ypres your tomb.

And yet the breezes are sweet as old,
And memory's tender caress
Has raised the veil of a gallant Gael
And shown me a soul God-blessed.

For you must have died as once you lived,
Though your requiem was thundering guns
And your only knell a spent star shell
Or a raining barrage from the Huns.

Then sleep on, son of St. Mary's!
Still our hearts are bound as one;
And though the day be eons away,
We shall meet 'neath a brighter sun.

Here's another one by Will. As Pete Matson says, "he doesn't fool."

A PRAYER
Will Stevens Jr.

Show me the Light, God, in its pith;
Unravel for me the Golden Myth;
Show this fool the path to tread,
Or else I go to Hell instead.

Teach me, God, the way to live,
Teach me, God, the way to give
The best I have, the best I know.
(The road be steep, the process slow.)

I do not ask imomrtality,
I do not dream to once see Thee,
I only beg to be clean and free,
To find my soul its liberty.

It seems as if Rock La Fleche isn't going to fall behind either. After coming out with a nice little poem last week, he's decided that one isn't enough. Here's his latest

AN IMPRESSION
Rock La Fleche

From the train, I behold a view,
A view that is rare to see,
With straining eyes I catch a glimpse
And this is what impresses me.

Just below a mountain of green,
I see a tower bathed in light,
On the tower is a cross,
Just below it, something white,

This white grows with the train's approach,
And the view more perfect becomes,
That something white is not a light,
It is the gleaming of the sun.

The sun is shining o'er a chapel,
The red-roofed buildings enhance the scene,
Standing tall, stately and white,
The beauty of them is extreme.

The train is moving forward,
And the view is fading from sight,
But in my memory shall ever live
That chapel with its shining light.

Behold! The eminent philosopher, Mr. Emmet Peterson, not satisfied by trying to get away with first prize in the essay contest, has decided to try his hand at poetry. We never thought that he could be pried away from his St. Thomas long enough to write a lyric. But here's the evidence.

AN AUTUMNAL SHOWER
Emmet Peterson

The blazing sun takes refuge 'hind a cloud;
The bright September morn fades into gloom;
While over all the land there spreads a shroud,
Dark clouds envelop all celestial room.
On earth wee mortals scurry for a roof
As warning drops come patt'ring from above;
A moment still, while Heaven holds aloof—
Then opened are the gates and tanks thereof!
Tons of water inundate the earth,
Flow off, evaporate, or soak the soil;
To the green grass the water gives new birth—
The rivers tumble on in new turmoil.
A few short hours—then by God's staying hand
The shower stops, and Sun looks on the land.

Gael Circulation Progresses Despite Business Depression

Business depression, although fast disappearing, is still exerting its influence on current business conditions, according to Eddie Cone. Ed, who is circulation manager of the Gael, says that most of the students are willing to buy a Gael and are anxious to make their installments, but are hampered by the lack of ready cash.

A few new easy payment customers have been signed up during the past week, and the total has been raised to around 175. Although the task of raising the installments on the book is a hard one, according to past experience the job of obtaining $3.50 at the end of the year is almost impossible.

Those students who have made initial payments are asked as soon as possible to make their next payments. The time until the Gael will be published is very short and to have the book paid for when it comes out, it will be necessary for every student to make his deposit every week without fail.

The student body should never lose sight of the fact that there will be only 500 books printed this year unless there is an indication of increased sales. Every student who wants one should make his initial 50 cent deposit to reserve a book for himself.

The club pictures that were taken last week have been received from the photographer, and according to Edmund Moss, editor, the glossies were of exceptional quality. To cover the charge of engraving there was a nominal fee charged each group that had its picture taken. Those clubs that did not make their deposit at the time the picture was taken are asked to remit before the end of the week. Providing this remittance is not made, the picture will not be included in the annual.

PALESTRINA

the value of music and art as an aid to reaching God, maintaining that "God is Infinite Beauty and one of our best means of approach is through the beauty of His own creation."

Archbishop Hanna, speaking upon "The Spirit of Liturgical Music," showed that the Church views music as a prayer. "When," he said in part, "the music voices the highest sentiments of the human heart reaching up to God, when it lifts us above the passing thing and brings us closer to Him, when, in a word, music is a prayer, then it is perfect."

Music," he maintained, of all forms of expression is in many ways the highest. "We express ourselves," he continued, "in signs, in groans, in prose, in poetry, but there are sentiments which well up in the human heart which words cannot express and which music can express. Music, he said, is that silence which is sometimes more eloquent than words.

"There are," he continued, "things in the human heart which are the highest and noblest feeling possible to man and which reach up to God, Who is beyond the powers of our intellect to comprehend and even beyond our power to love. It is by means of beautiful music that we approach somewhat to the sentiment that fills our heart."

Speaking upon the future of liturgical music in the vicinity, the Archbishop begged for the cooperation of the laity. He showed that it is often impossible for the priest to procure the talent necessary for the proper rendition of liturgical music of the highest types unless that talent is ready to hand in his own congregation. "The future of liturgical music of the high type which we heard today," he said, "rests largely in the hands of our own Catholic people."

Charles M. Dennis, director of the a capella choir of the College of the Pacific, speaking upon the "Values of Liturgical Music," sees in affairs such as was held at Saint Mary's a renaissance of choral music. "Today," he said, "we are witnessing a phenomenal increase in popular appreciation of choral singing of the highest quality. Many colleges now have a capella choirs, college glee clubs are replacing the frivolous music which was once characteristic of them with music of the highest type, and, what is most important of all, organizations devoting themselves to singing of this type have won for themselves responsive audiences."

The outstanding fact in his fifteen years experience as director of choral music is the interest which is being displayed by young students in unaccompanied singing and in their willingness to submerge their own personal interests for the interests and good of the group.

A paper prepared for the occasion on "The Progress of Liturgical Music in America" by the Rev. John M. Petter, S.T.B., professor of music at St. Bernard's Seminary, Rochester, N.Y., and president of the Saint Gregory Society of America, was read by Brother Julian, regular organist at the college. One of the outstanding points of this paper, which will appear in the next issue of the Moraga Quarterly, was a plea for a concentrated effort upon the part of intelligent Catholics to raise the standard of music now being sung in our churches. "The complete revolution," he said, "may take fifty years but as long as our Church music wavers between light opera and Saint Basil's hymn book, our best efforts will be in vain."

This is the third program of a cultural nature presented at Saint Mary's College since the beginning of the present school year and it was attended by probably the largest crowd that has ever attended a public function at Saint Mary's.

Prizes offered by Tobacco Company

A contest, offering $50,000 in prizes was inaugurated on February 25 by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., makers of Camel cigarettes, with special announcements in this and other college periodicals. Eight days are allowed for submission of answers, the contest closing at midnight March 4.

Prizes will be awarded for the best answers to the question: "What significant change has recently been made in the wrapping of the Camel package, containing twenty cigarettes, and what are its advantages to the smoker?" Answers are limited to 200 words in length, must be written on one side of the paper only, and are to be mailed to the Contest Editor, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

First prize is $25,000, with second and third prize of $10,000 and $5,000 respectively. Numerous smaller prizes will also be awarded. Judges of the contest are Ray Long, president of the International Magazine Company and editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine; Roy Howard, chairman of the board of the Scripps-Howard newspapers; and Charles Dana Gibson, internationally known artist and publisher of Life Magazine.

OUR OPPORTUNITY

Palestrina Day was undoubtedly one of the most memorable successes in the history of Saint Mary's. Hundreds of actively interested spectators were present, music authorities were unstinted in their praise of the masterly presentation by the choir, the Solemn Pontifical Mass and Benediction was a glorious presentation of the beauties of Catholic liturgy, the speakers, inspired by the magnificence of the program, were at their best, everyone, from the most notable participant to the most humble spectator, was obviously impressed, the entire program ran with a smoothness that can come only from superb direction, and last, but assuredly not least, the courtesy of the students made an impression that will not be forgotten for many a day.

To attempt to describe the program or to express our appreciation to the men who made it possible is entirely beyond the scope of our feeble powers. We must be satisfied with merely reiterating our thanks to Father Ribeyron, to Professor Sangiorgi, and to the numerous participants and interested spectators.

The most satisfying thought, however, comes not from the transitory beauty and impressiveness of the program, beautiful and impressive as it was. We rather like to think of the significance of the celebration, of the influence which it should wield in the lives of those who were fortunate enough to participate, and, in our wilder moments, we like to think that Palestrina Day will effect a rennaissance of the liturgical music of the vicinity. The significance of Monday's program lies not so much in what was accomplished upon that day as in what may follow in the days to come. If we are to realize the significance of Palestrina Day we must use it as a starting point; the seed has been planted, now must come the immense task of cultivating that seed.

Is it vain to hope that we may continue in that great work right here at Saint Mary's? It is a dismal thought to realize that the genius of a conductor like Roberto Sangiorgi is likely to go unappreciated in the very place where he would be most pleased to share with others the benefits of his ability and experience. This editorial, in the last analysis, is a plea for an a cappella choir composed of students of Saint Mary's College. We have a golden opportunity here to conceive in this Valley of the Moragas the nucleus of a movement which shall be far-reaching in its effects, the opportunity of making Saint Mary's College a vital factor in a movement to bring liturgical music to the fullness of its beauty.

If we fail to take advantage of this opportunity it seems to us that we have missed the fundamental significance of Palestrina Day. For it is one thing to appreciate beauty ourselves and quite another thing to do the work necessary in order to bring beauty into the lives of others.

THE OLD GRADS RETURN

The evident interest manifested in the plans for the Homecoming Day this year seems to show that the old grads take their annual return rather seriously. This is as it should be, especially when the program is made as instructive and as interesting as that prepared by the leaders of our Alumni Association.

The student sand friends of Saint Mary's are not a little proud of their Alumni Association in the fact that it sets the pace for other like organizations. They take the correct view that there is more than a sentimental reason behind such affairs and they endeavor to give the returning alumnus what he wants — a reproduction of his own college days in a proper atmosphere.

The spiritual, educational and physical aspects of the program show that nothing has been left undone to make the "old-timers" feel at home. Our alumni does not return to a group of empty buildings, or to a campus alive with the false vitality present on the eve of a major football game. Instead, they return to a college running along in its usual course, to the same college and the same atmosphere which they knew as students.

"WORDS, WORDS, WORDS"

Wrote James Truslow Adams: "if there is any word which more than another is coming to send a shiver down the susceptible spine of a man who has an historic background, it is the word 'new,' so sweated in literary shops." Men who write biographies to sell have imposed unfairly upon us; like the book calling St. Augustine "the first modern man," or another that makes out a case for St. Paul being the first Protestant. If the truth were known, every age is modern, and the real Dark Ages never existed.

Pushing the tone and talk of our society backwards into the past will ever be an unsatisfactory business. Chesterton in another connection epitomized the process as "finding new names for old ills." The old ills in this case being certain irradicable and positive vices that modern psychiatrists cannot dodge, as pride, lust, ambition.

Recent eulogies of George Washington tell us of his essential modernity: "If he were alive today his arm would be lifted against foreign entanglements." Now, the cherry story went by the boards long ago. If Washington has maintained his remarkable position as first in the hearts of his fellowmen it may be for another reason, and a reason very fundamental; because he saw the truth as much as it was allowed him, and lived very close to it.

CAMPUS COMMENT

Campus Comment is an expression of student opinion. All the communications (for the protection of the editor and The Collegian) must bear the signature of the writer, although if requested, the letter will be published with the initials only. In general, all communications will be printed, reserving to the editor the right to suppress any comment which, in his opinion, is detrimental to the best interests of Saint Mary's College and the Associated Students of that institution.

Editor, The Collegian.

Dear Sir: Allow me, please, to call to your attention one of the most wide spread of nuisances to the boarders. Invariably every morning on which we have student body mass, not mentioning other mornings, the bells in the "dorms" begin to disturb the peaceful slumber of the overworked students, about the ungodly hour of 6 o'clock or thereabouts. Following the ringing of the bells, a monitor commences to make his appearance about quarter past six, to be followed shortly by more ringing of the bells.

The above procedure of our weekly student body Mass is most racking on the nerves of even the most patient and religiously inclined student. In my estimation, this has been the major cause for such poor attendance at the students' Mass. Sturents hearing the continuous ringing of these bells become most sulky and irritable and out of pure, unadulterated anger, refuse to go to Mass.

Since this is a "college for men" why not treat the students as such? I would propose that the men who intend to go to Mas on student body mornings appoint certain reliable men to wake them, thus avoiding a considerable amount of unnecessary noise. And further, if students are intending to go to Mass they will of their own initiative get up, while those who do not have the same intention can remain at peace and at rest with the world.

—"Bells of Saint Mary's"

Editor, the Collegian.

Dear Sir: I believe that this letter should be addressed to the Head Waiter, but since you are in one of the most influential offices on the campus, I thought perhaps you would be able to bring your influence to bear and rectify one of the gravest of injustices. This comment is not motivated by anything personal, but rather by a deep sense of justice to those students who attend daily Mass.

It appears that the doors of the dining room are opened shortly before Mass is over (before 7 o'clock) every morning and those students who have not gone to church are allowed to take the best places in the hall, leaving the more undesirable for those who are at Mass. In certain cases these Christians are obliged to wait until the others are served. In other words they are obliged to pay a penalty for going to Mass. Such a practice discourages rather than encourages daily attendance at religious services.

I think it only just right that all be permitted to go into the dining room together, then there will be no cause for complaint. Sincerely,

—Justitia Omnibus.

Editor, The Collegian.

Dear Sir: For the past several months I have been happy under the delusion that the sometime mania of collegians for appropriating sundry signs as room decorations had finally dwindled away. The other night my delusion was rudely blasted when I visited a freshman room on our own campus and found five important posters filched from the college bulletin board.

If freshmen or any other students desire to decorate their rooms in this manner, that is their business. When they steal notices that are important to the college and various organizations in it, then it is time for the authorities to take a hand.

As a member of the Gael staff I was especially incensed at finding several of our staff notices among the conquered possessions. Certainly it is time for public opinion to force these gentlemen (?) to adopt a policy of reform. Hopefully, —Galloping Gael.

Editor of The Collegian.

Dear Sir: In view of the tremendous success of the dual boxing and wrestling meet held in Madigan gym last week I would like to take this opportunity to extend congratulations to Coach Mattson and the members of the team. Considering the lack of experience and the fact tha the sport is new in the athletic realm of Saint Mary's the showing was quite creditable.

Why not more of these matches? The number of spectators, in spite of the tax, clearly proves that this sport can be placed on a paying basis. We ardent fans of the gruesome fistic encounters and devotees of the ancient art of face lifting classified as wrestling heartily pledge our active support for future meets.

Another subtle hint to those sponsoring the affair. If you must charge admission why not make it 50 cents with student body cards and 75 cents or a dollar without the card. Those friends of the school who will come out here at night to such an event will pay a few more cents than they did last time and the students will not be allowed to moan about the uselessness of the activity cards. Yours for more blood and gore, —Fight Fan.

Lowery in Charge of Homecoming Day

William R. Lowery '11, chairman of the educational commitete of the Alumni Association, will be in charge of the educational session of the Homecoming Day program which will be held in the Student's Lounge rooms in Center Hall immediately after the Communion breakfast.

The morning's session will be given over to a consideration of the ways and means that alumni may evolve to further their own educational and intellectual development and to put into practice that which they learned while they were still in college. It is felt that, all too often, alumni do not make use of the talents and the training that is theirs, in furthering the intellectual and cultural development of their communities. To suggest practical ways of overcoming this fault will be the purpose of the educational session.

Lowery is well equipped to take charge of the session, especially because, at the present time, he is the moving spirit in the organization of a group of Catholic laymen of San Francisco to study problems of a civic and social nature that are of vital concern to the community and that, in a special way, are of particular interest to the Catholics of the community.

First Service School On Homecoming Day

"Know your product." Rightly, this is the injunction that should be given to every salesman as he launches forth on his journey of door bell punching or big executive contacting, for, even though a salesman may be convinced, in a general way, that his product is good, unless he can quote facts and figures and statistics and comparison, his sales talk will not be convincing, it will not sell the goods.

It is believed that, in the very best sense of the word, the alumni should be salesmen for the college; they should be able to "sell" Saint Mary's to the prospective student, to the prospective donor of money or books or to the person who "just wants to know."

In order to furnish the facts about Saint Mary's to the Alumni, a service school will be a feature of the annual Homecoming Day program and in the service school, the alumni will receive cold, hard facts as to just what Saint Mary's is doing and plans to do; what are her strong points and what are her weak points; what courses of study she offers and what are her plans for the future.

The service school will be arranged by a representative of the student body, of the faculty and of the alumni.

Most Odd—These Planets

Harvard College—According to the latest reports from the Harvard College observatory, the little planet Eros, which swung out of interplanetary space to a position 16,000,000 miles from the early early this year, appears to be elongated in shape.

Eros is only 20 to 25 miles long and eight to ten miles in diameter, according to preliminary interpretations. The announcement incidated this asteroid, which comes nearer to the earth than any other heavenly body except the moon, is rolling over and over as it swings through space, each revolution requiring five and a quarter hours.

The conclusion that it is elongated was arrived at from seeing that it has four variations in a period of five hours sixteen minutes and 12.04 seconds.

A New Discovery

University of Oregon — Discovery of 18 new lines in the mercury spectrum, of which 14 fit in with a general theory concerning the mercury atom, has just been announced by H. J. Unger, teaching fellow at the University of Oregon.

It was while calibrating his machine to obtain new photographs for illustration of a second and more comprehensive article on the spectrum shift dsicovery, that the present find was made.

A slight irregularity in a photograph of a galvanometer deflection caused by playing a beam of infrared or invisible rays across a thermocouple, a device which produces an electric current when slightly heated, first called the attention of Mr. Unger to the new lines.

"The discovery," according to Mr. Unger, "adds to the already existing knowledge of the structure of the mercury atom." The chief value, however, lies in its conformity of the theory regarding atomic structure of mercury.

Poor Boys, All Work No Play

Chaffey Junior College—It might be of interest to those who advocate "the too much stress on football theory" that football men from Chaffey Jjuior College who made a recent trip to the Hawaiian Islands, were not excused from their studies during the voyage. From 8 o'clock to 12 each morning the boys gathered in a large study room to be instructed by the faculty advisor who accompanied them.

Pretty Hard on the Remains

Southern Methodist University — Discovery of the petrified remains of a dinosaur, apparently intact, has been made near Southern Methodist University, by well diggers. The remains are to be turned over to the geology department of that universsity as a specimen of a pre-historic animal.

Encouraging a Revolution!

University of Southern California—In a recent editorial of the "Daily Trojan," S. C.'s newspaper, support was offered to Al Capone as candidate for president of the United States. Among the personal accomplishments and endearing characteristics of Al, were offered his ability as an organizer, his good faith in supporting the eighteenth amendment, his love of opera, children, "and the tender care of his aged mother."

This Is Co-operation

University of California, L. A.—Employment has been furnished to a total of 1099 students of the University of California at Los Angeles during the last four months. Of this total 401 were women and 698 men students.

More Brains Than Brawn

Stanford University—In future basketball games, fans at Stanford University will no longer have to worry when the score is tied, just how many minutes or seconds are left to play. Al Masters, general manager of the board of athletic control, has installed a new electric timepiece in the gymnasium, which records accurately the minutes and seconds left to play.

OUTLOOKS & INSIGHTS

By BROTHER LEO

THAT SPORTING SPIRIT

Some of us learned as boys to take our reverses without whimpering. It was not such bad training for life. Life has a way of administering punishment at times. It strikes out and strikes hard and lands blows in rapid succession. And life makes no concession to the man who protests that life is unfair.

In games, including those games in which the public expresses a widespread if not intelligent interest, there are seasons and periods of hard knocks. The best football team has its off moments; the team backed by most glorious traditions will have a year or two of what is picturesquely known as a slump. It is beaten game after game, and sometimes very badly; and those cheerful members of the alumni who are interested in everything about a college except its intellectual prestige wonder what on earth education is coming to.

One thing no supporter of any college has a right to do is to pluck the laurels from the brow of the conqueror. If you are licked, you are licked; it is bad enough as it is without trying to spoil the legitimate fame of your opponents. Admit that you thought yo could have done better; admit that you did get the short end of the score; but also admit that your opponents are just as much students and gentlemen as you are.

A good many thoughtful people in this country today are wondering about the future of football. They think the present condition is altogether too good to last. They are making a great fuss about the subsidizing of athletes, about the introduction of professionalism. Are there any grounds for apprehension?

What makes a sport is the sporting spirit, and the sporting spirit is primarily and essentially the spirit of chivalry. We are chivalrous when we take our defeats gracefully. We are chivalrous when we refrain from making unkind and in many casec calumnious comments on those who have demonstrated that they are better players than we are. We are chivalrous when we act on the assumption that it is a finer thing to be a true gentleman than to be a mere winner of games.

Football will die whe nthe sporting spirit dies within it. Without chivalry no college sport has a soul, and without a soul it cannot live.

THE OTHER THREE

A lady writing on "New Models in Scholars" in the North American Review for last November gently complained that the present generation of college students seem to lack intellectual initiative.

A cynic would say that this is no news. They take down in note books everything that is said to them, and usually they manage to remember a good deal of it; but they do no individual and independent exploring in the kingdoms of the mind.

Some instructors like students of that sort. They find it comfortable to go day after day into a classroom where their statements are accepted without question, indeed without scrutiny; and where no student even dreams of exposing his instructors' weaknesses or suggesting a different point of view.

Really good teachers, however, prefer to face a class of human beings rather than of note taking automatons. Is it too much to say that they like to be corrected by students who can correct them? At any rate, they like to be asked questions which they cannot answer. Especially, they like to have a student say something which makes them reorganize a portion of existing knowledge and change a long established method of presentation.

Confucius was a good teacher. He said: "If after being shown one corner of a subject, a man cannot go on to discover the other three, I do not proceed with the lesson."

Discovering the other three corners is of the very essence of true education.
